Red Light, Green Light

Red light! Green light! A classic and simple race game for all. You don't need any extra materials to play this simple game. Have fun, get some energy out, and keep communicating! Use your high-tech AAC device or a low-tech back up, just keep talking and keep it natural.

Core Words

are	all do/did	I
go/stop	you
is	he like	she take	big/little win	fast/slow

Materials

Place to run (hallway, field, etc.)	Child/client You AAC System

Model It on the AAC System

Modeling on your child's AAC system is just "talking" using his/her language! When you say a word with your voice, also say it using your child's voice. Take time to learn about the organization of your child's language. Use Word Finder, a helpful tool, to remember where to find words.

Tips to Engage, Expand, and Succeed:

- The rules are simple. All the racers start at one point. One person acts as a stop light saying "red light" or "green light". Red light means stop, green light means go. Whoever gets to the finish line or tags the stop light first is the winner.
- Focus on modeling core words while playing this game. You can say red, green, go, or stop to direct the racers.
  - You can use other core words to direct how the racers move toward the finish line: go slow, go fast, slower, faster, take big steps, take little steps.
- Looking for more creative ideas for Red Light, Green Light? Try giving directions to walk like different animals, take a certain numbers of steps, or use other describing words to tell the racers how to move.
  - You can also give directions to each racer individually. You can give the same direction to each individual or change it.
  - Or add more steps to the directions for the racers to move forward. For example, "Take 3 big steps, then jump 2 times."
- Remember, to talk like you naturally would and have fun!
