

Form	Content	Use
Phonology (the sound system of a language; the rules of speech sound use)	Semantics (the meaning of words and phrases)	Pragmatics (how language is used socially, including narrative and discourse)
Morphology (the rules of word structure; how morphemes are used to convey meaning)
Syntax (the rules of sentence structure; word order and grammatical rules)

DISCLAIMER: Take an individual’s communication modality and sensory-motor differences into consideration when thinking about how they demonstrate their language knowledge across these domains.

Please refer to aaclanguagelab.com for references used in the creation of these charts.